

Ask Me About

Week of 11/12

- Reading like a robot vs. reading like a teacher. We sometimes sound like a robot when we first pick up a book, but with our rereading power, we can read smooth like a teacher.
- How to retell a book. We need to tell who was in our story, when/where it was and how it ended. Ask me to retell a story that you read to me.
- About all the decisions I make as a writer! What to label, what words to write, etc. It's a big job!
- How my words can tell what the picture can't. I can add thoughts and feelings with my words that the picture might not show.
- Math games! We've been playing math games this week that help us learn our numbers, practice counting, and how to take turns.
- I've just finished our Unit 2 math assessment. The kids should be so proud of all they've learned! Look for a parent communication sheet with assessment information to come in the next few days.
- The weather! Boy did our weather change this week! We even saw our first snowflakes! We learned about why it's helpful for us to know what the weather will be like so we can be prepared.
- Celebrating Hanna's birthday! Thanks for the yummy cupcakes!!
